REPUBLICAN

Voters Out in State Grow Very Bitter to Louisville's G. O. P. Machine.

How Long is Mayor Quin Going to Head For Help and Co-operation?

Negro Sections Thronged With Idlers and Crooks, Immune From Police.

CAPT. LARKIN'S FUNNY STORY.

One can not help chortling the fact that all is not joy and serene in the Republican ranks, either State or locally, nor is that harmony present which one would expect considering that the party is in power in the nation, State and city. The pussy-footing of the Harding administration in regard to alliances and disarmament has disgusted many people, but the greatest worry of the G. O. P. is that the millions of unemployed men and women throughout the country are wondering what has become of the full dinner pail promises. In the State the Republicans outside of Louisville are bitter against the Searcy-Chilton machine, claiming that everything has been sacrificed to add the party in Louisville. National Committeeman Searcy gave out the statement the other day that the stinging defeat given the party in the recent State elections was due to the fact that Harding and Postmaster Hayes hadn't kicked out enough Democratic Postmasters. This is to laugh. The majority of Kentucky voters attribute the defeat to the rank failure of the "Howdy Ed" administration at Frankfort. How time flies. Eighteen months ago the Searcy-Chilton organ and the G. O. P. bosses were carrying Morrow around on a silver platter at the Republican national convention, and claiming that he was the logical nominee for Vice President. However, he had carried Kentucky by 40,000 majority. Now he just lost it by 60,000, and they are ready to throw bricks at the Republican Governor.

Boss Searcy also gave out the statement that he was running back and forth to Washington to urge the appointment of Republicans as Postmasters, but doesn't seem to have the co-operation of Senator Ernst and Republican leader Maurice Galvin of Covington, who appear to have joined the big army of State Republicans in opposition to the Louisville machine. Some of the State leaders aver that Chief frequent trips to Washington mean that he is laboring hard to land the appointment to the Louisville Postmastership of his cousin, Col. Petty, Chief of Police. And strong rumor has it that both President Harding and Postmaster Hayes are a little lukewarm on Petty's appointment, both being opposed to a man jumping from one position to another. Senator Ernst and Mr. Galvin don't seem to be fretting over the matter and a strong inside tip is that the plums will go to Herman Monroe, one of the old guard of the G. O. P., who seems to have acquired considerable backing for the place. All of the above sounds very plausible, as one would hardly expect Boss Searcy to be hot-footing back and forth to Washington just to secure the Postmastership appointments for some State Republicans at Hickory Corners or Graves Switch. Naturally he would be more interested in Col. "Lark".

The coming session of the Legislature promises much for the State and the future of the Democratic party. The party is on record for beneficial legislation that will insure success in the next State races. Many guesses are being made as to probable starters for the Democratic nomination in 1923, and the general opinion is that from the present trend the nomination will be like in the old days—equivalent to an election. Senator Simmons, of the present Senate, is being groomed by Percy Haly and Elwood Hamilton, Congressman Alben Barkley, of the First district, is receiving quite a boom from his home section. Congressman Campbell Cantrell has been in the limelight as a probable starter for some time, but has never officially announced he would be a candidate. Our own James Garnett, former Attorney General, has a big following throughout the State who want him to be the Democratic standard bearer, and it goes without saying he would make a formidable candidate. Many wonder how long Mayor Huston Quin is going to keep up his present series of continual performances in regard to betterment of conditions morally. For the past two weeks we have been reading daily of how Mayor Quin addressed a meeting of the city, good government representatives, ministers, Sunday-school workers or similar bodies, and in every instance the new Mayor came out with the same line of talk. His hearers were told that he wanted their hearty co-operation and assistance in cleaning the town of loafers, gamblers and undesirables. Mayor Quin knows that that line of talk is counterproductive and simple. He knows that he can call in his seven Captains of police and accomplish the cleaning up process without the assistance of Bible class workers, ministers, business men, civic workers or anyone else. Mayor Quin can take a fifteen-minute stroll away from the City Hall, go through Walnut, Tenth, Chestnut and West streets and see crowds of negro gamblers, loafers and vicious crooks hanging in front of and inside tough negro dives that pose as soft drink stands.

Mayor Quin can take a shorter stroll than that to see that his police department is not enforcing the laws. Let him go for a three-minute walk over to Cedar street, going West from Sixth street, and for four or five blocks he will see the scum of our negro population and from whence came a big portion of his 27,000 negro votes in the election. For another jaunt let him go in the neighborhood of First and Liberty and see the hundreds of tough negro men and women congregating there day and night without being molested by the police. These thousands of idle negroes depend on either gambling or burglary for a living, with election repeating as a side line in campaign times. Frequently we hear of the police raiding a dice or poker game, the police and the Searcy-Chilton organ making much over the fact that a Democrat was caught in the raid, but one never hears of a raid in the negro sections where hundreds of negro crooks and dope fiends are living—a dangerous menace to the community.

So the next time Mayor Quin addresses a gathering and ladies out that "bull" about wanting the co-operation of that particular body in cleaning the town, let some public spirited hearer tell him to put the police on the job. Many have begun to doubt already that Quin the man will pull away from the clutches of the Searcy-Chilton machine. The first instance was the promotion of Sergeant Baker to a lieutenant after Baker had been exposed as an election offender by the Mayor's Election Committee. Of that injustice there hasn't been a word from the Mayor, nor has he discussed the Baker appointment with any of the gatherings from whom he solicits advice and counsel. No one has heard yet of Quin announcing that the police, firemen and city employees must not contribute monthly to the Republican League, this being the claim shaving method of the Searcy-Chilton machine.

Irvin Cobb, a humorist of national reputation, relates a funny story in the columns of the Evening Post every day, by Capt. Edmund Larkin, of the Police Department, related one to the press the other day that surpasses anything of Mr. Cobb's and is excruciatingly funny. Here is Capt. Larkin's funny story: "My men patrol the district from Preston to Sixth and from Broadway to the river. Here is a list of the cigar stands, soft drink establishments and such places in my district. The list shows the proprietor's name, phone number and home address. If I hear that the Yellow House, or the Green House, or the Pink House is violating the law I don't want to have to go in and ask a lot of lugs who runs the place and where he is." That's a corking good story of Capt. Larkin's, isn't it, and is especially amusing to those that traverse his district. Wonder if the Captain's complete index system will tell just how much each of those soft drink men and Green, Yellow and Pink House proprietors contributed to the Republican campaign fund, and who made the collection.

You can bet that "Governor" Paul Durlingame is a bitter opponent of women in politics. During the campaign the "Governor" had two scrub women of the City Hospital force thrown out in the cold, cruel world for daring to register as Democrats. The hulkaboo that has raised pretty near drove the Board of Safety Chairman crazy. This week it developed that the "Governor" was accused by Miss Emma Hunt of having tried to have her removed from this zone of the United Public Health Service. Miss Hunt is a State politician of renown and a Democratic fighter of the old school. She enlisted all her powerful friends in both the State and nation, charging that the local Republican machine was trying to force her removal because she dared to register her views. The result was another solar plexus for "Governor" Paul. And ask him what he thinks of woman suffrage.

ST. LAWRENCE INSTITUTE.

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors and friends of St. Lawrence Institute will be held Tuesday night in the Knights of Columbus hall, and will be of much interest. At this meeting expiring vacancies in the Board of Directors will be filled and plans for the coming year decided upon. This is such a splendid object that it should appeal to all men and for that reason it is desired that every one interested, whether contributing member or otherwise, should attend this meeting. The great work being done by this boys' home is too little known to the public at large.

THE SHAME OF LOUISVILLE.

One of the Board of Trade officials was quoted Saturday as saying that all must forget incidents of the recent political campaign, and his views are the views of those responsible for the anti-Catholic agitation. Concerning this the following is taken from the Louisville Times: "If the Mayor and his committee want to go into the damage question, the Times would like to submit a few facts: To begin with, it knows that a very wealthy Catholic capitalist recently declined to invest in a Louisville proposition because of the scurrilous and untrue A. P. A. campaign made by the Republican committee at the fall election. Here is a definite instance of damage done that can not be charged to Mr. Harris. The Republican organ was sown with anti-Catholic innuendo for weeks before the election. Men who are now occupying judicial and other offices, and some of the foremost private citizens, signed an advertisement calculated to arouse religious prejudice. Shoddy anti-Catholic organs, published elsewhere but remarkably full of religious 'argument,' were circulated by the thousands. The 'pink circular,' against which Doctor Mullins righteously inveighs in another column of the Times today, was distributed widely in the interest of the Republican ticket."

Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, President of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, said in a published letter: "The odiousness of the pink circular as a political method appears when another list of names issued by the Republicans in a tract entitled 'Some Things You Should Know About.' It gives a list of the present police force, and contains 347 names. On that list there are ninety-eight Baptists, or a fraction over 28 per cent. of the total. On the pink circular there are ninety-one names of Democratic candidates and a little over twenty names of Catholics on the corrected lists; that is the Catholics number a fraction over 27 per cent. of the total. Now, if 27 per cent. of Catholics prove a sinister bargain with the Democrats, does not 28 per cent. of Baptist policemen prove a sinister bargain between Republicans and the Baptists? That is the clear indication of the pink circular. Baptists today have twice as many policemen as any other denomination and seven times as many policemen as any other denomination. Do the Republicans mean to boycott the other denominations? Now, I do not believe the Republicans are trying to bribe the Baptists or boycott others more than I believe the Democrats are trying to bribe the Catholics. There are valid reasons for the 27 per cent. of Catholics and for the 28 per cent. of Baptists, in my opinion. If not, let the whole truth be known. Baptists will be the first to revolt against any corrupt combination of political parties with religious bodies. I have written the above simply as a protest against what to me is an unworthy political appeal."

The sentiments expressed above by a Protestant editor and a Baptist minister can be construed to mean that serious damage was done to Louisville by the Louisville Herald, the Republican leaders and the Republican Campaign Committee, which attacked Catholics living and dead. The campaign committee was William Heyburn, S. Thruston Ballard, James C. Willson, A. E. Willson, Arthur D. Allen, Charles G. Middleton, Frank B. Russell, Mrs. John Middleton, Mrs. A. T. Hert, Mrs. Morris Gifford, Mrs. James A. Leech, Mrs. Herbert Bronner, Alfred LeGros, Charles F. Huhlein, Henry G. Knadler, B. Bernheim, C. C. Mengel, C. C. Stoll, Marvin H. Lewis, Ben L. Bruner, Chester K. Reed, Richard M. Bean, Arthur Peter. The above list are the ones referred to by the Louisville Times as "foremost private citizens" and they should take the lead in repairing the damage done to Louisville's good name and the injustice done Catholic citizens. If they lead a movement to destroy religious political prejudice in this city they will have done a good work and earned the gratitude of all fair-minded citizens.

IRELAND

World Rejoices That People Have Won Battle That Lasted Seven Centuries.

Sinn Fein and British Cabinet Reach An Agreement That Carries Freedom.

All Are Hopeful That Minor Details Be Perfected Without a Hitch.

PRISONERS FREED BY KING.

This has been a momentous week for Ireland, which apparently has won her freedom after a struggle lasting more than seven centuries.

Tuesday the world was electrified by the announcement from London that the Government officials and the representatives of the Dail Eireann had reached an agreement, the terms of which will be submitted for the acceptance of Parliament and of the Dail Eireann. After a session which lasted more than three hours, from 11:15 at night until 2:20 in the morning, the meeting of the Government Ministers and Irish representatives in the Downing street residence of the Prime Minister separated, and a member of the Cabinet, replying to a question as to how things stood, said: "The news isn't bad; an agreement, in fact, has been reached, the terms of which will be communicated to the press in time for the Wednesday morning papers."

The treaty as signed consists of eighteen articles and giving to Ireland the title of the Irish Free State and the same constitutional status as Canada, Australia and other overseas dominions. The question of allegiance, which up to the last moment threatened to wreck the negotiations, was surmounted by permitting the members of the Irish Parliament to swear allegiance to the Constitution of the Irish Free State and "be faithful to His Majesty, the King." The treaty yet has to run the gauntlet of the Ulster Government and of the Imperial Parliament. The Imperial Parliament has been summoned to meet December 14, and will be opened in state by the King, who has taken the closest personal interest in the Irish negotiations since he practically inaugurated them when he opened the Ulster Parliament.

Approval of the Imperial Parliament is a foregone conclusion, as the Government has an overwhelming majority in the House of Commons favoring its Irish policy, and the action of the British representatives in reaching the agreement, already has been indorsed unanimously by the Cabinet. The position of Ulster is less certain. Evidence comes from Belfast that the treaty will be subjected to the most searching examination before receiving assent, and doubtless many modifications will be proposed. The King hastened to send a telegram to the Prime Minister congratulating him on the success of the negotiations and declaring: "I am overjoyed to hear the splendid news."

The treaty was signed by all the members of the British and Irish delegations participating in the negotiations. The Irish delegates signed their Gaelic names. Ireland is treated as a single entity in the provisions of the treaty, with special clauses providing against the possibility that Ulster should refuse acquiescence in the settlement, in which case the Government of Ireland Act of 1920 will remain in force so far as the Northern Parliament is concerned, but with the stipulation that a special commission shall determine new boundaries for Northern Ireland. Provisions also are made for the co-operation of the two parliaments in providing certain safeguards in the event of Ulster remaining out of the new Free State. Neither parliament, however, will be permitted under the treaty to make laws endowing any particular religion or to impose any religious disability. The treaty leaves to Ireland in the future undertaking its own coastal defense and provides that Ireland in time of war shall give the British forces necessary harbor and other facilities. It further, by providing against international limitation of armaments, recognizes the Irish Free State's right to maintain its own military defense force.

Austen Chamberlain, who is leader of the Government in the House of Commons and of the Unionist party, speaking at Birmingham Tuesday, expressed the conviction that before Christmas peace and good-will would be established between "the parent races of the British Commonwealth," and he appealed with emotion to Northern Ireland to join the new Free State. The Irish delegates return home fully satisfied with the result of the negotiations. They expect some opposition in the Dail Eireann, but with the influence of Griffith and Michael Collins, as well as the other delegates, they have little apprehension as to the outcome.

With the tension and anxiety of the past weeks giving place to general rejoicing, Wednesday was a day of all-round congratulations, of recalling the memories of great figures in the Irish struggle, whose work and sacrifices paved the road to today's accomplishment. Preparations for the necessary formalities for bringing the new Irish Free State into being. Nowhere is there any real idea that anything can now happen to prevent its birth, although difficult detail may have to be encountered.

One of the first fruits of the peace—probably arranged for at the conference when the treaty was drafted—was the royal proclamation liberating more than 3,000 prisoners interned in Ireland. It is reported also that there may be reconsideration of the sentences imposed on these Irishmen convicted of political crimes. Preparations are afoot in London, Dublin and Belfast for the consideration of the treaty. The King has summoned Parliament to meet at Westminster December 14 to ratify the treaty, and Cabinet councils have been summoned at Dublin and Belfast. General de Valera has as yet given no hint of his attitude, but it is generally assumed as the delegates to the London conference were plenipotentiaries that the treaty will be approved at least in principle.

The signing of the treaty has been received joyfully by the Labor party. A joint manifesto was issued by the various bodies comprising the party, expressing satisfaction and the hope that Ulster would wholeheartedly adopt the agreement, and also appealing to the Belfast workers to secure industrial peace in the interest of trade union solidarity.

The Irish delegates on leaving London for Dublin had a wildly enthusiastic send-off from thousands of London Irishmen and women gathered in Euston station. The large force of police present tried vainly to control the excited crowd, but the delegates had literally to fight their way to the train.

Michael Collins gave a brief statement to the press Wednesday evening, but made no direct comment on the treaty, confining himself to remarks on the possible influence of the Irish Free State on world politics.

The royal proclamation calling for the assembly of Parliament next week orders the members to attend for consideration of "divers urgent and important matters." Under the proclamation the Sinn Fein members, who have heretofore disregarded the summoning of the House of Commons, may take their seats. It is doubtful, however, if they will. There are seventy-three of them, including Griffith, De Valera, Collins, Countess Markievicz, Harry J. Boland and other prominent members of the Dail Eireann.

MAKE HOME

Where Old Folks Gladly Rest and Children Find Greatest Pleasure.

Applying the Hand in Useful and Artistic Work in Family Circle.

Girls Should Acquire Good Training in the Art of Home Making.

SPHERE OF GREATEST SUCCESS.

Modern science has given us cheap reproductions of the world's famous paintings. Their study should be an incentive to spend evenings at home, for they allow us to share in the noblest emotion of the race and introduce us to the thought of some of the world's greatest artists. "A great picture like a poem is at home in the generation and is to be looked at and enjoyed." Applying the hand in useful and artistic work in the family circle was likewise once a factor in home-building. Drawing, painting, sketching and clay modeling hold out many opportunities more refined, a place worth while, for making the home more lovely, where the old folks gladly rest and where the children find their greatest delight and pleasure.

What makes this decay of home life so pitiable from the Catholic point of view is that the family, and hence the home, are such vital and important institutions of social welfare, the foundation of progress in every order, the root of social peace and prosperity. Our Divine Savior Himself sanctified the home and home life. He enjoyed the sweet and simple pleasures of the holy family life at Nazareth. His most happy years, and by far the largest portion of his blessed life, He passed in the humble home in the little town of Palestine. He wrought his first miracle at the foundation of a new home at Cana and for the happiness of a family. Into how many a home life brought comfort by his miracle, his wondrous cures and manifold acts of well doing!

Modern education has taken up the problem of home training and has introduced elaborate industrial courses and domestic science teaching into the curriculum, but let us reason for a moment concerning the real object of these studies. The word "domestic" in domestic science is connected with the Latin word "domus," home or house. Therefore this kind of training is intended to prepare girls for the great and all-essential work and duty of home-making and home-building and home-keeping. In other words, they are to learn how to make the home a place which will be gladly sought by all the members of the family, especially when after their marriage they have founded a home of their own. What would we think of a student who, after having successfully completed a medical course at great expense to his parents, should abandon the fruits of his years of study and turn to some other work? What should we say of the young man who after spending years in the study of law, and after having graduated in the profession, should neglect it, sell his law books and turn to some entirely different field?

But yet many girls today, who have an opportunity to acquire a good training in domestic science and household economy, that is in the art of home-making, show by their conduct that they do not appreciate their opportunity. They are doing little to make the home a pleasant abode, and to help their mothers by precluding what they have acquired in their schools. They are like the student who gives up the results of years of study and of hard work in some profession to take up some other duties.

Now this is not because girls really do not see the value of the training they are getting along these lines or because they have a prejudice against practicing what they have learned. They are simply misled by the foolish notion that there are higher and better and nobler spheres of action open to them than home-making. Perhaps there are—for some. But not for the vast majority. Mrs. Sewell Dwight Hills, a woman well known in Brooklyn society, some time ago contributed a paper on "Some Successes of American Women" to the Outlook, in which she says: "But the sphere where woman has made her first, best, and greatest success, and where there will always be the first, last, and greatest need of her service, is in home-making. The tendency of the day is towards fewer homes, but though the home-maker is rarer fortunately the type is far from extinct."

PEACE ON EARTH.

At this season of holy peace it will not be amiss to remind ourselves of the important conference that will take place next May at Rome, the center of Christendom. Catholics from every country in the world will assemble to pay public homage of love and obedience to the King of Kings, the Prince of Peace, in the blessed sacrament of the altar. It will be the great International Eucharistic Congress, the first since the World War.

FREEDOM FOR IRELAND.

Throughout the world there is rejoicing that a treaty has been signed by the Sinn Fein and British Cabinet which grants freedom to Ireland and raises her to the status of a Free State. That the treaty will be ratified by the two Parliaments seems now certain, as there will be no opposition to the terms unless it comes from the insignificant but hostile Ulster Orange faction. For over seven hundred years the Irish nation has struggled and waited for this day, which will bring peace and happiness to Ireland and England. For both this will bring a happy Christmas, and in their prayers of thanksgiving to the God of peace none will be more earnest or fervent than the sons and daughters and friends of Ireland in Louisville and Kentucky. For all it means a new and better era.

WORLD PEACE.

The Catholics of America are intensely desirous of peace and a happy issue to the disarmament conference. The idea of disarmament originated with Pope Leo XIII., was taken up by Pius X., repeated by Benedict XV. in 1917, and has at last been brought to the council table of the nations by President Harding. Special prayers for the success of the conference have been ordered by prelates in many parts of the United States. Archbishop Hanna, of San Francisco, who as Chairman of the Administrative Committee of the National Catholic Welfare Council was one of those who signed the original letter, directed to President Harding, asking him to have the United States take the initiative in a movement for disarmament and world peace. Archbishop Hayes has said with much pertinence:

"It seems to me an obvious truth that the ambition to have the largest army or the most powerful navy is one of the most unholy of all national ideals. Its honesty of purpose may well be questioned on its very face. Constant will be the temptation to try out such engines of destruction on the weaker. Pretexts easily arise to force issues of so-called justice and national honor that would never be thought of, if might could not make right. The limitation of armaments is a long step towards universal and permanent peace."

It would be premature to predict a happy issue to the conference, but with so many prayers going up to the Throne of Mercy from the hearts of Christendom, we may confidently hope that God will send peace in our day and make international disarmament his Christmas gift to a world weary of war and its horrors.

SHOULD BE REPAID.

The disarmament gathering in Washington appears to be headed to one objective as far as we are concerned, which Father Dooley tersely describes as: "Cancel the foreign loans and throw your arms away." So far this is a correct summary of the work being done at the Washington conference, for surely such friendship as the conferees profess for each other could not and would not be complete if one party insisted on the refunding of the moneys spent for what they regard as a common purpose. By the way, would not the United States by insisting on these loans being repaid do more for disarmament than any amount of belittling by the diplomatic four-flushers who foregather at the national capital?

PECULIAR REASONING.

What is the difference between a League of Nations and an Association of Nations? Does not league presume association, and is not association the framework of league? By what peculiar process of reasoning does President Harding interpret the extraordinary majority vote against the League of Nations as a mandate to enter in Association of Nations? It is an alarming and humiliating fact that the present administration is more responsive to the wishes of certain foreign governments than to the wishes of those who put the reins of government into its hands. This would not be the case if we had an organized public opinion. Our people can be trusted to do the right thing in a crisis, but unfortunately they have neglected the means of checking up the work of their public servants as well as of compelling them to obey their mandate, delivered at the polls. When our people take a live interest in the work of their official servants then we shall be assured of the service we desire.

AMERICAN EXAMPLE.

The greatest honor that can be paid ex-Marine William A. Redd, Jr., for his heroic act in saving a train from being wrecked during the flood at San Antonio, will be in making known to all his display of American bravery and manhood. Here is indeed an example whom all might well follow. His noble spirit stamps him as an exponent of what we consider the highest standards and worthy all honors. The honor we suggest is being sensibly conferred upon the brave Marine by Chairman William H. Clayton and the Ace High Medal Foundation. All will admit that this honor will serve a more lasting and fruitful purpose than money alone.

ORANGE BLUFF.

Sir Jimmie Craig, the Half Ulster Premier, says that "Ulster" will not have anything to do with Lloyd George's peace formula, but that it will stand to its guns to the last gasp. This is nothing more than the usual Orange bluff, a variation of the threat to kick the Queen's crown into the Boyne if disestablishment of the church were proceeded with. The Orangemen is no more progressive now than in 1870, when this threat was made, and no more likely to make his threat good than he was then. Besides he will have a problem of his own to solve when he tries to govern Tyrone, Fermanagh, South Down, the greater part of Armagh and Derry City, which have declared allegiance to the Irish Republic.

HEADS THE JUNIORS.

Little William Cline was this week elected President of the Junior Literary Society of St. Xavier's College, and is very proud of the honor. Billy smiles when the boys address him as "Mr. President."

JUBILATION CONCERT.

The Robert Emmet Branch of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic will celebrate Irish freedom with an Irish Sonora concert next Tuesday evening at Holy Rosary Hall, and members are urged to bring their friends, admission to be free. Selections of John McCormack, Chauncey Olcott and Irish dances will be featured.

VINCENTIAN QUARTERLY.

The Particular Council of the St. Vincent de Paul Society announces that the members of the local conferences will approach holy communion tomorrow morning in their respective churches, and that the quarterly meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon in Knights of Columbus Hall. At this meeting Secretary Bohan will read the report of the year and also the quarterly reports of the conferences. Rev. Father Diomedes, of St. Joseph's church, will deliver the address. An invitation is extended by President John Doyle to active and honorary members of the various parish conferences to attend this meeting, which will be a general interest.

SHOW THREE DAYS.

The newest and best production of the Catholic Art Association, "The Blasphemer," will be presented December 10, 11 and 12, with a matinee every afternoon, at a showing to be given in St. Xavier's Gymnasium, 118 West Broadway. The story of "The Blasphemer" is a transcript of life. You will weep and laugh over it; it will play upon your heart strings, it will call up the bubbles of laughter from the wells of mirth, it will thrill you and enthrall you, it will entertain you and teach you.

KING GEORGE HAPPY.

King George telegraphed Prime Minister David Lloyd George Tuesday afternoon the royal congratulations on the reaching of the Irish agreement. The message read: "I am overjoyed to hear the splendid news you have just sent me. I congratulate you with all my heart on the successful termination of these difficult and protracted negotiations, which is due to the patience and conciliatory spirit which you have shown throughout, and I am indeed happy in some small way to have contributed by my speech in Belfast to this great achievement."

NOTICE! NOTICE!

BILL OF SALE MADE APRIL 1, 1915, BY H. A. J. PULS TO H. B. DRIVER

KNOW ALL MEN, that I, H. A. J. Puls, of Louisville, Jefferson County, Kentucky, for and in consideration of the sum of $3,500, do bargain, sell, transfer, assign and deliver unto H. B. Driver, of Louisville, Jefferson County, Kentucky, the dye and cleaning business of H. A. J. Puls, now being carried on and conducted by the said Puls at No. 426 South Fifth street, in Louisville, Jefferson County, Kentucky, its good will, name, the lease of said premises at No. 426 South Fifth street, in said city, county and State, and all my rights, title or interest in or to every tangible or intangible thing or property now upon said premises or in any way belonging to, pertaining to or connected with the said business, the books of the business and all notes or accounts unpaid as of April 1, 1915, together with all of the following enumerated and listed articles of personal property now on said premises or belonging thereon or to the said business conducted as aforesaid at No. 426 South Fifth street, in said city, county and State.

TO HAVE AND TO HOLD, as of and from April 1, 1915, all and each of the above bargained, sold and delivered rights, titles and interest to the said H. B. Driver, his executors, personal representatives and assigns forever.

And I, the said H. A. J. Puls, do further covenant with the said H. B. Driver, that there is now no mortgage, lien or encumbrance on any of said property or business or interest, and that I, H. A. J. Puls, will not for a period of ten years, engage in or be connected directly or indirectly, with any business competing with the business herein sold to H. B. Driver, conducted by the said Driver or by the corporation herein referred to.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this first day of April, 1915.

H. A. J. PULS.

Witnesses:

Arthur M. Wallace,

R. G. Pritts.

Our business has been very successful since I purchased the interest of H. A. J. Puls, April 1, 1915. At that time it was a very small business, doing under $300 business during the week ending April 10, 1915, but with hard work and sound business methods we have built up a wonderful trade, independent of any association or combine, and our business for the week ending April 9, 1921, has increased 500% over the business for the week of April 10, 1915. We have enlarged our place of business at 421 WEST CHESTNUT STREET, and on May 23, 1921, we purchased the plant and assets of the Economy Cleaning Co., which is one of the most up-to-date dry cleaning plants in the city.

SOCIALISM DECLINING.

York the Socialist ticket drew an amazingly small number of votes.
In Germany likewise the Socialists are less in favor than they were directly after the war.

Mrs. Margaret Cahill, 3121 Magazine street, was held from St.

years old and resided at 3121 Magazine street. Her husband, Charles J. Cahill, five sons and two daughters survive her.

Patrick's church, where the funeral

Mcneaney. Her funeral took place Friday morning with requiem high mass, attended by a large number of old friends and acquaintances.

St. Louis Bertrand's parish lost one of its pioneer members in the death of Joseph Coles, who died last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Coles was in his ninety-sixth year and had enjoyed perfect health up to within a few days of his death. Many attribute his longevity and good health to his liking for fresh air exercise and not the oldest neighbor can ever remember to seeing Mr. Coles riding on a street car or any other vehicle. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bridget Coles. The funeral took place from in St. Louis this week, where he conducted the exercises for a triduum at St. Mark's church, of which the Rev. Peter J. O'Rourke is pastor. The triduum ended on Thursday, the feast of the Immaculate Conception.

CATHOLIC SYMPATHY.

More and more the practice is spreading among Catholics of having masses said for the dead instead of spending money on floral tributes.
If the dead could speak, they would tell us that the best way we, whom they love so much, can testify our love for them is to storm heaven with our prayers, to have masses said for them, to obtain for them the grace of an early entrance into their eternal and one true home. A few flowers on the graves of our dead are well and proper. The performance of our prayers ascending to heaven, the graces of masses said, or the giving of alms to God's poor in the name of the one whom we love, will do far more good.

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES.

A woman whose Christmas packages never fail to reach their des-writes the name and address of the recipient upon the inside wrapper of the box containing them. Packages sometimes lose their outside wrappings, but if the postal clerks can find the address on the inside wrapping all will be well. This woman also ties up the inside wrapping securely before putting on the outside cover.

PAULIST CHORISTERS.

The Paulist Choristers of New York. Father Finn's world renowned choir of boys and men, who will sing at the Auditorium on December 15, are well known to Louisville music lovers. Last December Father Finn brought his famous little songbirds to the Armory, and a capacity audience emphasized its appreciation of their art by demanding a return performance this season. The sixty-five boys in the organization range in years from nine to fifteen and almost every State in the Union is represented. Father Finn selects his material without regard for class or religious belief. Scholarships are granted solely on merit to the winners of competitive examinations, held periodically throughout the country. The Choristers' School in New York, where the boys are trained, is located in Washington Heights, on the Hudson, at Inspiration Point. Here the student choristers are schooled, not only in musical courses, but scholastic, as well, and prepared for professional vocations later in life. The sole revenue for the maintenance of this worthy work is provided by the proceeds from concert tours. The concert at the Auditorium December 15 will be the only opportunity the people of Louisville will have to hear the choristers this season.

ST. HELENA'S CLUB.

The bi-monthly meeting of the St. Helena's Co-operative Club will be held next Monday night in Presentation Academy Auditorium. Matters of interest will be discussed, and therefore all members are urged to attend. On account of the Christmas holidays there will be no social meeting this month. A very promising Literary Circle has been formed within the club, meeting Tuesday evenings at St. Helena's College, 625 South Fourth street.

ENJOY DRAMATIC TREAT.

The pupils of Presentation Academy enjoyed a dramatic treat on Friday morning, when Miss Long and Miss Edwards presented in the auditorium of the academy two dramatic sketches, entitled "On a Southern Porch," and "On a Southern Plantation." In an effort to revive Southern spirit, "Dixie," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground" and other Southern airs rendered by the classes completed the programme.

PORTRAIT FOR IRELAND.

"Portrait of a patriot," the painting by Sir John Lavery of President De Valera, of Ireland, which has caused tremendous discussion at the Paris Autumn Salon, will be purchased by an anonymous American enthusiast and presented to the Irish nation, to be hung in the place of honor within the Irish Parliament. Darkness frames the portrait, fugitive glimpses of light playing on the strong features of the Irish leader, giving the face almost a dreamy, idealistic look, while detracting nothing from the character shown by the firm chin and mouth. Experts say it is the finest psychological study in the Salon.
